

THE EVOLUTION OF THE TROTTER.

A few weeks ago the Pacific Rural Press gave an interesting study in the evolution of the trotting horse by Prof. W. H. Brewer, of Yale College. Prof. Pickering makes the data collected by Prof. Brewer the text to certain deductions to show what the future trotter will do. The only trouble with such prophecy is that perhaps the horse will not do it. There may be barriers in the forms of natural limitations which the animal economy cannot overcome. But the reasoning is ingenious and the results interesting even if they are never realized or never reached except on paper. Mr. Pickering finds that the speed of the trotting horse is increased at a nearly uniform rate of 4 1/2 seconds per mile in ten years, and that at this rate, in the year 1907 a horse will trot a mile in two minutes, and in 2045 in one minute. This improvement cannot, however, go on indefinitely, and Mr. Pickering thinks that the convex curve which he now finds to represent with tolerable fairness the improvement in the horse's speed will soon become a straight line, when the speed will remain stationary, and may even be converted into a concave curve, with a corresponding falling off in the horse's development. Another point which struck Mr. Pickering in his examination of Mr. Brewer's tables is the rapid increase in the number of trotting horses—an increase which, if continued at the present rate, will, in the year 1900, supply the country with 10,000 horses that can travel a mile in 2.30 or less.

The Democracy is for free trade in everything. While this is no doubt a good thing for Democratic capitalists, and others who are not compelled to look to the labor of their hands for what they shall eat and wear, it is not a wholesome principle for the producers and American mechanics at large, a very large number of whom are Democrats. Free trade is simply to open the doors of the work shop for the employment of skilled labor at 25 cents a day, not in reality but in effect. Whereat American citizens, now building homes, and living nearly, if not quite as well as their employers, may sell the edged tools of skilled labor, and take their chances for life with the spade and pick in the building of railroads and canals. This is precisely what free trade will lead to, and precisely the thing Democracy will establish whenever it attains the power. Mechanics and laborers, when thoroughly understanding what free trade means, who vote for the party that promulgates it as one of their fundamental principles, are going against their own interests just as much as if they set fire to all their accumulated possessions and walked out into the desert by the light of it.

"Ranch del Paso" has a sonorous sound as befits the title of a thirty-thousand acre farm, and on a portion of these acres are some of the finest stock in California. There are thoroughbreds, trotters, coach and draft stallions, and mares, especially the trotting mares of high breeding. Echo, who formerly reigned at Dewdrop, is at the head of the trotting stud, and he is entitled to the place from the performances of his get. Algona may prove a dangerous rival, and then there is a son of Electioneer and others to present claims which are sure to be troublesome.

The granite shaft which is to mark the spot where Custer and the seven companies of the Seventh United States Cavalry laid down their lives has been shipped to Montana. The monument consists of a cube of Montello granite, resting on a base of the same material. It is inscribed with 1,400 letters, comprising the names of the slain.

A Washington despatch says: The Marine Hospital Service, which will have charge of the disbursement of the $100,000 epidemic fund, is taking steps to get the earliest possible information as to the approach of the yellow fever. It has despatched a surgeon to the Mexican border to report upon the condition of the disease there.

At the Cornish wrestling at Grass Valley, on the 4th, 5th and 6th, the successful ones were: 1st Prize Frank B. Richards, $100; 2d Prize, Wm. Brookington, $70; 3d Prize, George Uren, $50; 4th Prize, Jas. Seymour, $30; 5th, Prize, Jas. Hamm, $20; 6th Prize, Jas. Dower, $10.

Stockton merchants are dissatisfied with the mode of collecting county licenses and are clubbing together to obtain a legal opinion as to the constitutionality of that law. They object to the imposition of one dollar collector's fees for every license issued quarterly.

A "Remarkable Speech."

The speech of General Durbin Ward, made to the Democratic State Convention of Ohio, after his defeat for the gubernatorial nomination, has been termed "remarkable," and really it does partake of that character, as the reader will no doubt think, when he has perused the following extract which we take from it:

The voice of Democracy to me is law, and when you have chosen to nominate for Governor of the State a man who has not rendered you one-tenth part of the service that I have, I bow in acquiescence. I shall take the stump with whatever power I have, and bring victory to the banner. Gentlemen, it has not been the usage of a Democratic convention heretofore to call upon the defeated candidate for Governor to make his appearance. You call for the successful candidate, but leave the disappointed man to come before you to exhibit his griefs or explain his wrongs. You have chosen to call me here to muster me out of service at the end of thirty years. [Cries of "No."] Gentlemen, I regret extremely that you called me here now. It reminds me when I had fought for years in the army and was wounded. Do you see that lame arm now to lie at my back? When they attempted to muster me out I went to Washington and had myself mustered back again, and continued to fight for several campaigns; and so now I may say, what I did not desire to say, but what you have compelled me to say, I refuse to be mustered out of the service. And I say to you, as you have chosen to defer another man for Governor, you have left no place for me but the Senate or Congress, and I therefore openly proclaim myself, whatever may be the results, as a candidate for the United States Senate. I did not desire to say it. I besought the committee that called upon me not to bring me here. I would not say that that would be disagreeable to them and to the convention. I am too much of a Napoleon to give up the battle because I happened to be lost. Let me add one word more, then I shall lose. I shall not use one dollar to procure my nomination to the United States Senate. I shall appeal to the strong horse sense of the Democratic party. As they refused me the lower place, I shall ask that one, and if I get it I shall favor the doctrine that to the Democrats who win the victory belong the spoils.

Immigration to California.

The California Immigration Association reports the arrival of 5742 immigrants during the month of June, and 909 arrivals for the week ending Saturday. During the past week another company of Germans arrived and will locate in Sonoma and Solano counties. The building of railroads into the timber regions of Humboldt county is attracting large numbers of immigrants to that section of the State. It is estimated that Humboldt county alone has a timber reserve of redwood, pine, spruce, fir and cedar of 73,295,000,000 feet, which is greater than that of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota taken together. Besides this it has 950,000 acres of agricultural and grazing lands, which need no clearing and are abundantly supplied with running water, springs, etc., and 1,500,000 acres of Government land now ready for occupation, subject to the homestead and pre-emption laws.

The President's Proposed Trip.

It is now settled that the President will start on his contemplated trip to the Yellowstone Valley about the 1st of August next, if nothing should interfere with his present plans. The arrangements for the trip are in the hands of Lieutenant-General Sheridan. The party will number about ten persons, and will be gone five or six weeks. The President will join General Sheridan and other members of the party at Chicago. It is proposed to go direct to the Yellowstone with as few stops as possible. The President has abandoned all idea of visiting Newport, and will probably remain in Washington until he starts for the West, with the possible exception of making occasional short trips on the steamer Dispatch.

Glenn's Murderer in Sacramento

Wednesday Sheriff Davis, of Colusa county, took to Sacramento and lodged in the County Jail Hiram Miller, who killed Dr. Hugh Glenn. Judge Bridgford, in the written order sent to the Sheriff says he considers the jail in Colusa county unsafe. It is said that a party of 200 men had been organized in the vicinity of Jacinto to take the law in their own hands. The Sheriff feared he could not raise a force sufficient to withstand a mob and accordingly applied for permission to remove his prisoner.

California Grape Crop.

The prominent manufacturers of wine, from the advices received by them up to the present time from the various California grape-growing districts, believe that the yield the coming season will be unusually large. Thus far the vines have done exceedingly well and no black frost or other objectionable weather injurious to the grape has been reported.

For dressing the hair, and beautifying it when gray nothing, is as satisfactory as Parker's Hair Balsam.

A TEMPERANCE SERMON.

Rev. Noyes, Presbyterian, in Evanston, Ill., lately said:

In fighting against this gigantic evil of intemperance it is first of all necessary to seek, and find, and plant ourselves upon a rational basis of opposition to it. This task—which ought to be an easy one—is rendered both difficult and delicate by the fact—which is surely a fact—that to a wide and deplorable extent intemperance is fought with intemperance—the excess, or even the moderation of indulgence in drink, with excess of passionate denunciation, while the rejection of this or that method of promoting temperance reform is denounced as a betrayal of the cause and an alliance with the liquor traffic. If we cannot consider and discuss this subject with calmness and perfect Christian self-restraint then we are guilty of the very sin of intemperance which we denounce, and guilty in the act of denouncing it. We fight intemperance of appetite and honest and well-meaning but possibly mistaken efforts to lessen its evils with intemperance and violence of speech. This ought not to be so.

There are three points which I propose to state and argue in the further discussion of this subject. They each invite and would fully repay a much fuller discussion than it is possible for me now to devote to them. They are:

1. That to abstain in itself no virtue, and not to abstain no crime.

2. That abstinence in certain circumstances and for certain ends may become an exalted virtue and an imperative and urgent duty.

3. That drunkenness or any intemperate use of intoxicating liquors, is always, everywhere, and under all circumstances a sin and a crime. To the first two of these three points I shall devote but few words, reserving to myself more time for the discussion of the third.

The Yellowstone Park.

Extensive preparations are being made for the opening of Yellowstone Park and its hotel August 1st. It is expected this event will take place about the time of driving the last spike in the Northern Pacific Railroad. Both occasions will be graced by the presence of a large number of distinguished people. President Arthur and party have made arrangements to visit the National Park about that time, and there will arrive before that time a New York party of about thirty Englishmen, including Sir John Rose and Sir John Pender and three ladies. This party will proceed in a special car to the Northern Pacific, and over the road to the National Park. It is expected that the Park will be in readiness for distinguished guests by that time. A branch road will be constructed by the Northern Pacific Company, and the road, bridges and telegraph facilities will be completed within this month. It is understood the Secretary of War has authorized the Military Commander of the Division of Missouri to detail an engineer to proceed to the Park and superintend the construction of roads and bridges.

The Senatorial Contest in New Hampshire.

A special from Washington says: A gentleman who just came from Concord says Senator Rollins has had no chance for re-election since the caucus was held, but there are no indications yet afforded of what the result will be. The candidates have about equal chances so far as can be seen. Secretary Chandler has no chance. He is going to Concord to-morrow to be where he can take advantage of any favorable circumstance. Secretary Chandler has made just as determined enemies in his political management in this State as Senator Rollins has. Both of them have strong friends and equally determined opponents, and it happens the present Legislature contains opponents numerous enough to prevent the election of either of them.

A Word of Warning.

Hon. David Davis, in the Fourth of July oration at Bloomington, Illinois, made use of the following language: "The precious legacy bequeathed to us by the fathers of the Republic can only be preserved in its purity by a faithful observance of their examples, and by a firm adhesion to their principles. The tendency of these times to a lax construction of the constitution, to a centralization of power, to extravagance in public and private expenditure, to aggrandizement of wealth in a few hands and to corporate combinations against the people, may well make us pause and regard the future with misgiving."

Several advertisements appearing in the Call yesterday announcing tickets for sale by different individuals for passage to Eureka Nev., gave rise to a little inquiry in the matter, when it was explained that a number of excursionists from that place, who procured round trip tickets good for six months, intend remaining during the Conclave and longer than the time allowed, and so wish to dispose of their tickets without loss.—S. A Close Call.

J. C. Smyles, the pioneer Surveyor of Elko county, and well known in this section, says the Safford Express, came very near being killed on Tuesday of last week near the C. P. sand out. He had been surveying at or near Beowawe and returned home on foot on the C. P. track. He stopped at Gerald for a short time and resumed his journey home. On arriving at the cut he encountered the east bound passenger, and from the statement of eye-witnesses attempted to board the train while it was in motion. As near as can be ascertained, we learn that he was struck by the platform of one of the cars, which sent him rolling down the embankment, a distance of about 40 feet. The engineer could not have seen him, as no attempt was made to stop the train, even our witness not being able to state at the time positively whether a man had been thrown down or not, having seen only as he says, "something rolling down the bank." Such proved to be the case, however, as Smyles shortly after went back to Gerald displaying a black eye and a bruised elbow.

"The Prettiest Town."

A correspondent of the Golden Era writes the following concerning us: Reno is the prettiest little town threaded upon the iron rail after leaving Sacramento; there is an air of home and refinement about it that is very pleasing. Many buildings rear their heads, and the churches are many for so small a town—five or six, I believe. The gardens are well kept and adorned with the brightest flowers, the most noteworthy being a frequency of the beautiful yellow rose so rarely seen in San Francisco. The bells of the churches solemnly ringing give a sacred thrill to the air, and the throng of neatly attired ladies and children on their way, bespeak a good character for the town. I suppose the gentlemen attend the churches also, but I am not positive, my attention being attracted more by the fluttering garments of the other branches of the family, it looked so odd to come suddenly upon the scene of Summer and Summer dressing, after the snow-banks and dark wool dresses of the day before only a couple of hour's ride away.

THE JULY HEAVENS.
Movements of the Planets During the Present Month.

The July moon was born on the morning of the ever glorious Fourth, a few minutes after six o'clock, says the astronomical observer of the San Francisco Call, and as our venerable Uncle Samuel, with his back to the north looked to the south at the beautiful lands he will one day call his own, he saw the silver crescent square over his right shoulder hanging like a diadem of pearls in the western heavens. Uncle Samuel, like a majority of his stalwart sons, may not be superstitious, but in his old heart he must have felt that it was a favorable omen with which to begin his 108th year. Astrologically, the national year began with favorable omens. The planets of malific influence were too far away to cast their baleful shadows on the stars that foreshadow fortune; and if folk lore to be true, and the teachings of astrology be not false, the roaring Glosier is in from Modoc, and the air is full of "machines."

Thunder showers have prevailed about the Summit of the Sierras during the past week.

MRS. FELLOWS' MURDER.
A Drunken Ruffian Deliberately Cuts Her Throat.

The San Francisco papers report that the neighborhood of 632 Howard street was thrown into great excitement last Friday evening by the foul and cold-blooded murder of Mrs. Hattie Fellows, wife of William H. H. Fellows, a printer, and formerly of Reno, by John Hennessy, a veteran of the civil war and who, for fifteen years past, has been drinking heavily. The proprietress of the tenement is Mrs. Mahoney, a distant relative of Hennessy's, to whom she had given a home for two months past. Between Hennessy and the Fellows family bad blood had existed for some time, owing to Hennessy's making slanderous statements concerning his victim. Fellows, it is said, recently threatened to shoot Hennessy for this, and the latter meeting Fellows last Tuesday, struck him twice. Wednesday evening when Hennessy spoke to Mrs. Fellows' little girl, the mother quickly asked: "How dare you speak to that child after you have struck its father?" Last Thursday evening Hennessy, while drunk, renewed the quarrel. With Mrs. Fellows, who threatened to scold him with hot water. Friday night, about half-past seven o'clock, Hennessy stole quietly upon his victim as she was cutting kindling in her yard, and seizing her by the hair, drew her head back and slashed her throat with a razor, inflicting a fearful, jagged wound from which the lifeblood spurted in streams. The unfortunate woman gave one scream. The assassin retreated rapidly, and in reply to the exclamation of "My God, John, what did you do that for?" of Mrs. Eliza Auchincloss, replied coolly: "I meant to fix her some time," and then walked down to Market street, followed by children, who pointed the murderer out to Officer Soule, of Merse's Merchant Patrol, who arrested him.

Dr. Newell was summoned to the side of the dying woman, and found the jugular vein and all the principal arteries, except the carotid artery, severed. The poor woman was removed to the Central Hospital, where death ensued at 11:30 P. M.

THE MURDERER PROTESTS IGNORANCE.

Hennessy pleaded drunkenness and ignorance of the whole affair. It is stated by some of the police that he had been a harmless man, but an excessive drinker at times, when he would be almost demented, which statement is corroborated by Mrs. Mahoney and others who knew him.

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine.

"The August number is even more brilliant than usual; the variety and excellence of the contents are highly creditable to the editor, and commend it not only to religious but to general readers—they combine most edifying, entertaining and instructive reading. No. VII. of Religious Denominations in the United States, 'What is Episcopacy?' is contributed by Rev. Charles H. Hall, D. D.; there are portraits of the late Bishops Channing Moore, of Virginia, Wainwright, of New York. 'The American Pilgrim in Palestine,' by De Leon, and 'Among the Natives of the North,' by Lieutenant Schwartk, are continued. There also, interesting articles by Ida Herve, Rev. W. W. De Hart, Alfreton Herve, Rev. H. Benham, Rev. H. M. Field, etc. The charming stories 'The City of the Sun,' and Mr. Burke's 'Nieces,' are continued, and there are essays, sketches and poems of rare merit. The editor, T. De Witt Talmage, contributes 'Helpfulness,' and a sermon to the Home 'Spice in Religion.' The miscellany is abundant and the illustrations profuse. No family should be without this excellent magazine. Price 25 cents a copy; $3 a year, postpaid. Mrs. Frank Leslie, Publisher, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place New York.

Board of Pardons.

The State Board of Pardons convened yesterday morning, with Governor Adams, Attorney General Davenport and Judges Hawley, Leonard and Belknap present. The Board acted upon the following applications as follows: Bernard Fitzgerald, sent from Washoe county, October 12, 1893, for murder in the second degree in killing Tom Laswell, and sentenced to twelve years, was pardoned by unanimous vote.

John R. Middleton, sent from White Pine county, December 23, 1891, for manslaughter and sentenced to ten years, pardoned.

Chas. Harris, Humboldt county, murder in second degree, sent up for 18 years in 1877; application rejected.

John Sullivan, Lander county, murder in first degree and sentenced for life; continued for term.

Hope for Drunkards.

My husband had drunken habits he could not overcome until Parker's Ginger Tonic took away his thirst for stimulants, restored his energy of mind and gave him strength to attend to business. —Cincinnati Lady.

WHY REPUBLICANS WILL UNITE.

Because a Democratic restoration is now a menacing possibility, Republicans everywhere are canvassing the worst means of reconciling personal and factional differences in the Republican party. Practical unity among Republicans in the near future, following much discussion, to be supplemented by great good will, is inevitable, and it will come soon enough to disappoint the Democratic hope of witnessing in 1895 the inauguration of power pledged to undo the patriotic work of the last twenty-five years.

Unquestionably, the issue of protection to American industry and labor will conspicuously effect the result of next year's contest. Upon that issue the enemy already retreats. Even at social gatherings of its leaders the Democracy cannot conceal its purpose of "futile dalliance" with the most serious questions affecting the public welfare, and its wavering lines break in cowardly flight at the first challenge to avow its real faith and purpose. Bayard, the Pecksniff of Democracy, shelters himself behind platitudes worthy of the deceitful methods of Van Burenism, and upon the tariff question shows himself as much a "doughface" as when, like Van Buren, he postures as a "Northern man with Southern principles." Water-gate brilliantly belabors the "jackass-like nonsense" of Carter Harrison, in forcing to the front an issue upon which Kentucky cannot harmonize with Connecticut or Pennsylvania, either in a National Democratic Convention or at the polls on the day of election. Nevertheless, Carter Harrison has carried his point, he has forced his Democratic comrades to his position—i. e. get the office by ignoring one, or all, if necessary, of the prime questions of next year's fight. But the country understands Harrison and Bayard, and trusts one as much as it does the other, and as much as it trusts the Democratic party.

In contrast with Democratic evasion and subterfuge, the country accepts the present and past attitude of the Republican party upon all questions affecting its material welfare. Republican unity upon practical questions, like the tariff, is one guarantee of a united Republican party next year—the same Republican party to which the country owes its present prosperity, and whose past is its best plea for popular confidence as to all questions affecting commerce and industry. The present Administration voices party sentiment upon these vital questions. It also voices Republican sentiment in its consistent and determined policy of recovering the South from the belittling sectionalism in which it has floundered for half a century.

Bourbon perversity and recalcitrancy to the spread of the National idea in the South will compel Republicans to renewed brotherhood. For Democracy will be prompt to accept the tender of the issue of nationalism against sectionalism. Within thirty years it has had no hope of getting or holding power, save through that "solid South" which, with the aid of a beggarly account of Northern Electoral Votes, elected the last Democratic President. A "solid South" forced the Union to fight for its life, and it is now the dreamed of reliance of Democracy to reinstate itself in possession of the National Government. The Administration has led the party in the work of shattering the solid South. Virginia first cracked the iceberg in 1861. North Carolina and Florida will be easily secured next year, and 1894 will be hereafter a real year in American calendars—the year of the final disappearance of that fifty-years' menace to the peace of the country—a solid South.—Washington Republican.

The Trial of Combs.

The jury in the Combs trial were locked up until yesterday afternoon, when they were discharged. They stood six for murder in the second degree and six for acquittal.

Wells, Fargo & Co.'s business on the Carson & Colorado Railroad has increased to such an extent that the company has been compelled to increase the messenger force to four.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-swt-1yr.
